Dear as thou wert, and justly dear.

We will not weep for thee
One thought shall check the starting
It is that thou art free. ^{tear}

And thus shall faith's consoling power
The tears of love restrain.

O, who that saw that parting hour
Could wish thee here again

Triumphant in thy closing eye
The hope of glory shone

Joy breathed in thy expiring sigh
To think thy race was run.

Thy passing spirit gently fled Sustained by Grace divine

O may such grace on us be shed
And make our end like thine

Arling Little Ad.

little

I cannot forbear writing to my aff. sister, when I see by Aunt Carrie's (caroline Sams.) how earnestly she begged to come to me, in my trouble to comfort me. God bless you for thinking of my grief, when your own tender little heart was bleeding for the loss of our fondly cherished brother (John Reynolds) and now you have another to mourn, for little Rob. (Robert Reynolds) has gone to his rest, but he is with God and happy in heaven.

Therefore we should not grieve for him, as though we had no hope, I have been sadly afflicted little sister, and so has your dear little heart, for I know what a wealth of aff. it contains, for all that are near, but we must try to be reconciled to the will of that God who cannot do wrong, and who, though he has taken away those we have, so fondly loved, had in doubt some wise purpose in view.

Let us try and believe so and lay up treasure "Where moth nor rust can corrupt nor thieves break through and steal," Happy will be those of us who having laid up treasure there, will feel no regret at the decay of earthly things.

I dare say you feel very sad at times dear Ad on account of being separated from me, but cheer up and let us hope for the time when we will return to our dear home, and though it will be desolate, no doubt, will still be home to us, I will take care of your dear child if it is in my power, when the war ends, until then I know you could not be with one who loves you more than your dear Aunt Addie (Adelaide Oswald Chovin) do all you can to please her for she is doing a mother's part by you, give her an aff. kiss, also your aunt Carol (Caroline Oswald Sams, a sister of Adelaide O. Chovin). God bless my dear little Ad. and take care of her, is the prayer of her fond.

Sister Sally

Letter written to Addie Reynolds ^{Adelaide} Later Lawton, from her half sister

Mrs Sarah Louisa Reynolds.

Aunt Sally Reynolds (Sarah Providence Reynolds, sister to Richard, James, Elizabeth, Mary etc Reynolds.

Summerville, S.C. Jan. 25, 1868.

My dear Carloline,

I received your welcomed letter, handed me by Mr. Rivers (Horace Rivers) of James Is., the first week in this month, I hoped to be in town (meaning Chas.) when I received it, I was truly happy to hear from you all once more, would have replied to it sooner, but the cold disagreeable weather caused me to delay it till this time, and besides I am so nervous that I can scarcely steady the pen, sufficiently to write a letter, so must lay long silence my dear child, and you girls must not wait on me for an answer to all your letters, but whenever you can, write your old auntie who will always be so glad to hear from you all at any time, Oh/ how glad I would be to see you once more if it was in my power I would be so pleased to come up to see you, but I have not the means to defray the expense of traveling. I am now entirely destitute, with out one dollar in the world, and entirely dependant for a home among my friends and would be so glad if I could get some work to assist me in purchasing clothing, but find that hard to get as there are so many placed in that way but by the course of nature I can't be here in this world of trouble very long as I have arrived at the age of && 77 years, very few ever reach the I feel thankful that my general health is so good that I am enabled to go about, without being being burdensome to my friends. My dear Carol as soon as I can get a favorable opportunity, I will try to forward the little matters that I have for you, I am spending some time up here in Summ erville, I may remain here until the last part of next week, as I have a more comfortable room here, than I would have were I to be on James Is.
The house your Cousin Sarah (Mrs Sarah Horace Rivers) lives in is rather open, is not sealed, it is quite a small..... Built home, put up in hurry as her comfortable one was taken down during the war, and she so

Has room for her own family, Charlie (Rivers) has got in business up at Asha poo, Susan Rivers is married, lives in Marion Dist. so she has Willie Sally and three younger ones with her (all Rivers one of younger ones is Dou Douglas and Emily) that they were all well except Emily, she has been bo bothered with chill and fever, . As soon as the weather gets milder, she in tends to send her up to stay with Susan, as the change may restore her h health, I am sorry I have nothing very interesting to communicate at this time, but when I return to the Island I will write again, in the meanwhile will look for a letter from you. Give my love to all of my friends, your a aunts and cousins up in Barnwell. I do long to see them once more, if we do not meet here in this world of sorrow and trial, I hope we will in a happ ier on e ^{above} above where .trouble.and.sighing will forever flee away, and all tears be wiped away from our eyes. I must bid you adieu for this time my dear child as my hand shakes so I can scarcely guide the pen, do give my love to your dear Grandma, Addie and Livie, best respects to your grandpa and now may the Lord be with you all, to bless and protect you from all ev evil is the prayer of your ever aff. old Auntie Sallie.

Addie and Livie Reynolds mentioned in this letter are sisters of Carol.

Father Chaplin's only sister when his wife died Aunt Martha was only 3 weeks old, when sent to her, she was Miss Margaret Chaplin who married a Mr Richard Reynolds of St. Helena, he was only related to the Oswalds by marriage, had no children of her own, when my grand - father Chaplin married again, his wives two daughters treated my mother /ant Cecelia so badly that he had to send to his sister Mrs Reynolds, they all lived with her until they married, my mother Livinia Chaplin to my father Robert Oswald and her twin sister Cecelia Chaplin to Mr William Benj. Oswald and Aunt Martha ^{Oswald} Baynard to Mr Archibald Calder Baynard. I was born at her house named for her a sister of my fathers who died when 16 yrs. old and dear cousin Margaret was born theretoo and named for her, they both had several other children on Jericho before she died, she was like a mother to them all.

Livinia and Cecelia the twins married their cousins, my father Robert Oswald and Uncle Ben Oswald, they always called their husbands cousin as long as they lived, each of them had places on St. Helena, where they planted as long as they lived, those on Jericho were given them by their father Mr Benj. Chaplin. divided between his three daughters, the place called The WhiteHouse Plant. and after the war it was called Little Baynard, that was given to Aunt Martha, my mother got the homestead, Uncle Ben, aunt Cecelia cousin Maragret their first child stayed with my mother until they buildt, and neverma day passed that they didnot see each other unless they were sick My father called his brother Ben, and he called him grey as he turned grey so soon, then Mr Richard Reynolds, after his wifes death, married this Caroline Ann Perry, he had no children by either of his wives, he died left her a widow, had a large plantation and fine large house on St. Helena which he left to her, wand it went to to her relatives, she had a good many sisters, all married.

Letter written by Caroline Matilda ^{Baynard} Sams

acting as clerk while he practiced medicine, lived with his wife's mother old Mrs. John Bythewood had one child by her, named John Bythewood Oswald, his sister Mary Oswald married to Mr Ise Jenkins... .. had Mary, Adeline and Ise moved to Cherry Hill, Aunt Martha Baynards place. Ise Jenkins, Louisa Clapham & Robt Oswald.

My mother's father were living at Jericho, she was a pious, christian lady. she was first cousin to Richard Reynolds, they were first cousins to my father and Uncle Ben. I think his wife died at Cherry Hill and was buried in the Baptist church in Beaufort, Mrs Dr. Oswald left her little son Ise John Bythewood with her old mother Mrs John Bythewood and went traveling with her husband Dr. Oswald. he the Dr. died off and was either buried at the Churchyard on James Is. or Wadmalaw

About your father I can tell but little, have heard that his father was married twice and had Mary and Robert by her first marriage to her husband married again a Mr Reynolds and had that one son, your dear father, when she died, her name was Mary but I never heard her maiden name, Brother R's two half brother and sister both married, Robert Oswald after studying medicine married Miss Ann Bythewood, settled in Beaufort and kept a drug store there, Mr Tillinghast acting as clerk, while he practiced medicine.

until taken sick then John attended to them, My father was called for Dr. Oswald's father who settled in Walterborough and practiced medicine there and Uncle Ben Oswald was named for his Uncle General Oswald who settled there also both of them married and had families and died there.

My great-grand-father emigrated from Wales to this country and the Oswald are all his descendants, Carol has your grand-father's likeness (Reynolds)

Oswald- she then returned to Beaufort, his widow, after which about a year and a half, she lost a little son (Robert Bythewood Oswald) and buried in Baptist churchyard in the Reynolds lot. after her mother's death she was a widow for some time, Mrs Oswald and Miss Cripely Bowman owned the house, her daughter Margret Bythewood married Mr. John Bell (a widower) his first wi wife was Miss McKee, Mr Henry McKees Sister, who died of T.B. leaving an only son Theodorè Bell, he was a rich man owned Bells Island and got the house that Col. Robt. Barnwell and family owned afterwards, he took to drinking, had first to sell the house and live with his second wife on BellsIs. in the winter, then he sold that house for 10,000 and Land to Dr. Thomas Fuller, they then lived with Mrs. Oswald and Miss Boman. Charlie Bell then taught in the college in Beaufort, was studying law at the time, married Miss Fanny Kirk. Dr. Guerard moving to Bluffton where one of his daughters married and lived, Charlie Bell bought the house with his wifes money, practiced law at Gillisonville, their daughter Fanny Bell was born there, when persons had to refugee from Beaufort, Brother Reynolds (Richard) was staying with Mr. John McKee and wife, as his father and mother both being dead, he was left his guardian, he owned a place called Whale Branch. Mr McKee attended to his business, he went to school in Beaufort to the old college on the out skirts of the town of Beaufort, was sent to Pa Capt. Partridges Military Academy, Mr. Henry K McKee and himself, where they graduated (in Mass0) then Brother Richard Reynolds took charge of his plantation, afterwards he married Miss Margaret McKee, sold Whale Branch to settle her place that her father left her on Lady's Island spent their winters there and hired different houses in Beaufort for the summer and then sold some of his own people and bought the house he owned in town (Beaufort) had three children, Maregrat, Sally & John, Maragret died young blind, she was buried in the Episcopal church yard in Beaufort. Mrs Reynolds, she was then taken sick, he took her in the steamboat to Chas. to consult a surgeon there, after reaching the wharf (her sister Mrs John Verdier going with her and "Beck" as her maid, she died on the boat from some internal disease, was brought back the next trip of the Eboat, and buried in the Episcopal Churchyard (see Tombstone)

Your father's parents were buried on James Island where your dear father and his half brother Dr. Oswald was also buried

I think your father Richard Reynold's half Sister Mrs Joseph Jenkins, who was Miss Mary Oswald was buried in Episcopal Churchyard.

Dear Mrs, Lawton:-

I have your letter of several weeks ago. After several unsuccessful attempts, I have been able to find in the Library of Congress a biography of Edward Reynolds, whom I believe to be the Edward Reynolds referred to in your letter. I have made a copy of this biography and enclose it herewith.. The book from which this was copied is one of a set containing sixty volumes, known as "National Biographies". I trust that this will give you the information that you desire.

I was unable to find any trace of the coat of arms. With regards, I am,

Very truly yours,

Edward Reynolds was a member of the Westminster assembly, and one of the presbyterian ministers at the Savoy conference, yet he became bishop of Norwich. He was a strong calvinist, and died in 17xx 1676.

Joshua

Sir Joshua Reynolds, a most eminent painter, and many years president of the Royal Academy, born in 1723. The lectures that he delivered on the subject of his art will be preserved to the latest posterity, as models of compositions. His most famous paintings were "The Infant Hercules", "Count Ugolino", "Garrick between Tragedy and Comedy" and "Mrs Siddons as the Tragic Muse." He died in 1792.

Miss Florence Lawton,

Beaufort, S. C.

Dear Miss Lawton:

I received your letter of recent date, and regret that I forgot and left it at home today and will not be able to reply in detail; in the meantime, I will say that I had a conference with Miss Webber, and she says that she is not specializing in genealogical work at this time, and says the following ladies in this city do work of this kind: Mrs. H.G. Leiding, Miss Isabel and Mrs. W. Hampton Perry.

I am writing our state historian today, Mr. A.S. Sally, to find out if he has any early records of William Reynolds, who, according to your statement, may have been the emigrant.

The genealogy that you furnished of the Reynolds family is quite interesting, and is more thorough than that which was furnished me by Miss Hart. According to the records of Barnard Reynolds, the dates appear to be lacking; this is quite important.

I trust that business and weather conditions will be such that I can make a trip to Beaufort in the next ten days or two weeks; however, I will advise you a day or two in advance.

I suppose you are acquainted with some old friends of mine, who are now living in Beaufort. I refer to Miss Bell Lawton and Mrs. James Lawton.

I will bring with me all of the information I have on my proposed visit to Beaufort.

Thanking you for your interest, I beg to remain, with kind regards

Yours very truly,

Miss Florence Hewton,

Dear Miss Hewton,

I regret very much that I am not in a position to furnish you the data requested, the Chart that I have gives no dates whatsoever, only mentions the fact of the various unions and the Children of Aed, my Grand Uncle Dr. Wm. D. Townsend who went to Ala. before the civil war having married into the Reynolds family, (and also his mother was Reynolds) and as far as I have been told the entire Reynolds family went as did some of the Allison's, Lee's etc. Was Uncle Wm. Townsend the best informed man in his time as to the history of the Reynolds family, I think most of the data obtained by those who got up this chart was chiefly obtained from correspondence of his wife my mother which he kept up to the time of his death - Oh he and my mother have long since passed away. The Misses Etta and Maggie Allison now still living (in Carrollville Ala) are granddaughters of Uncle Wm. Townsend, and if they have preserved the writings of their grandfather, may be in a position to shed more light on this subject than anyone else. Mr. Townsend Reynolds of Charleston S.C. (precise address unknown) should know something - as far as I know he is the last to bear the name in this section - his sister Mrs. Jeanie La Roche lives at Meggett S.C. Thier is a Mr. Lee who works at Southern Fruit Co. Charleston S.C. who is related somehow - I met him about a year ago at a Masonic Meeting in Charleston S.C. and he was telling me something about the Ala. Poets - when I go to the city again I will try and get in touch with both him and Florence Reynolds and if they know anything of importance will advise you - You will realize that as practically the entire Reynolds family went in this exodus to Ala. it is very difficult to obtain anything at this late date relative to them whatsoever and as far as I can see it, your very best prospect lies with the Allison ladies mentioned, it will largely depend on whether they are resider-

we or otherwise for I feel entirely sure that their grandfather, whom they well remember, had more data on the Reynolds family, than anyone else.

I am very sorry that I cannot at this time shed further light on the subject but if I can aid you at any time I will be glad to do so

Very truly

W. R. Hart

My sister Miss "Allie" Hart may be able to give some information - if she has not sent those letters of Uncle W. B. T. to her nephews who got up the "Chart" then she perhaps has members of them - my mother always preserved them.

EDUCATION IN SOUTH CAROLINA UNDER BAPTIST AUSPICES.

BY H. T. COOK.

41 Rev J. L. Reynolds, D. D.

J. L. Reynolds was the son of Geo. F. Reynolds and was born in Charleston 17th March, 1812. He graduated with the first honor at Charleston College, and from there he went to Newton Theological Seminary, where he took the full course. Returning to the city he married Miss Charlotte Smith, the daughter of Benj. Smith. His first pastorate was in Columbia, where he remained for a few years. In 1840, he became the president of the Furman Institution, near Winnsboro, and remained in this position until 1845. In 1845 and 1846, he was professor of ecclesiastical history and Biblical Literature in the theological department of Mercer University in Georgia. Next he was pastor in the Second Baptist church in Richmond, Va. Thence he was elected to the presidency of Georgetown College, Kentucky. Next he was elected to the professorship of Latin in the South Carolina College in the palmiest days of that renowned institution. For nearly twenty-five years the handsome, intellectual face and courtly manners of Dr. Reynolds were familiar in those classic walls, and hundreds of young men have tender memories of the genial and elegant Latin professor of their college days. He was at length at his own request transferred to the chair of Moral Philosophy. After the war political changes dismissed him and the entire faculty of the college. In 1874, he became Professor of Latin in Furman University from which position he was called to "come up higher" on the 19th of December, 1877. His wife, a fit helpmeet in talents and accomplishments, survived him but a short time, so it can almost be said "in death they were not divided." (B. W. Whilden's sketch drawn from Encyclopedia, News and Courier and his own recollections.)

Dr. Reynolds occupied a place of his own in the galaxy of our representative men. He was affable, dignified and highly cultured. When acting as president of the Convention, he appeared the personification of self-respect, self-control and confidence in his brethren. He was not bound by parliamentary rules and did not hesitate to decline to put in an assembly of brethren a motion savoring of political tactics. As a teacher, he was beguiled sometimes, by questions of precocious students to spend in lecturing or talking the time allotted to recitations, and not unfrequently his kind-heartedness gave certificates to meritorious but unsuccessful students. In other respects he measured up well with his excellent colleagues.

He and Dr. Johnson were more profoundly versed in church history than their contemporaries who were engaged in the pastorate. Dr. Reynolds' thorough acquaintance with that great thesaurus of humanity, Roman history, reacted upon and corrected not well digested views and made him occupy a middle ground between a theologian and a thinker who profits by the study of philosophy, which is a failure in its main purposes, but, in its methods, a disciplinarian of the reasoning powers. While yet a young man, he was chosen by the Bethel Association to write an address on "Congregationalism the Primitive and Apostolic Order of the Christian Church." Two-thirds of a century still leaves it unsurpassed in lucidity, force and conclusiveness. One passage may well be reproduced for the present hour, when the churches are in danger of assimilating Roman municipalities rather than Greek city republics: "The independence of the churches raises a barrier against the spread of dissension. A church may be torn in pieces with strife; and, yet, all its neighbors go quietly on. Having no right to interfere, they are not called upon to make the quarrels of others their own; and thus evil passions and feelings may expend themselves on the spot from which they sprung. But, let a root of bitterness spring up in any portion of a widely extended ecclesiastical organization, and its presence is soon felt in every other. A single throb vibrates to the remotest extremities. The flame of dissension spreads from State to State, until, as we have recently seen, the whole country resounds with the clamor of religious discord."

Dr. Reynolds exemplified his theory by his life. He once vacated his seat as president of the Convention when he conceived the body was infringing upon the rights of a church. He was also a constant attendant on the business meetings of the church, where he was quick to perceive what ever was inappropriate. On one occasion, in a large church conference, a lady came forward for membership and said in her examination that she was joining because her sister was a member. The suspense following the statement was soon relieved by Dr. Reynolds, who in a kindly way stated clearly on what grounds one should seek to join a church, and moved that action in her case be postponed and that the pastor talk with her in private. It offended the sister, but it left the church and Dr. Reynolds in a good light before the congregation.

Dr. Reynolds' ripest thoughts were reserved for the semi-centennial of the Baptist State Convention. His assigned subject was the history of the Convention and the lessons to be gleaned therefrom. The original feature of this was his disquisition on the confederation of churches, associations and conventions, each of which was independent in its sphere. He was the only one in his generation who dwelt on the parallel between the political federation and the confederation of the churches and upon the few points of divergence. This confederacy of churches he believed to be both "scriptural and philosophical" but that it was unwise to seek a scripture precedent for a system that had not then entered the meditations of the wisest statesman. To his mind the immense advantage of a confederated system of churches was its ability to combine conservatism and progress and be a barrier to two extremes, anarchy on the one hand and absolutism or centralization on the other. Its existence had been justified by the source whence it sprang, and by its proven competence "to concentrate, organize and direct the expanding activities of the churches."

He did not push his excellently worded theory to its full completion. The wounds of the civil war were still fresh and his love of the old South and its federation of states had complete possession of him. "No root of bitterness" had sprung up in the confederated system of independent churches, independent associations and independent conventions, to disturb the equipoise or to dispel the illusion that our complex system would be exempt from the operations of universal law.

During the last few years in Greenville he was a standing supply for vacant pulpits. He was a decided Baptist and he was decidedly popular with other denominations. The last sermon preached was in the Presbyterian church and as he was coming out with an Episcopalian friend, he said, "This is my last sermon." In a few days, he was lying in state in the Mansion House, where, even in death, he was looking the noblest Roman of them all.

NOTE: The celebrated trio of words, "elicit, combine and direct," found in the Constitution of the Southern Baptist Convention and reverberated above in "to concentrate, organize and direct" has been traced back to 1817, in the minutes of the first Triennial Convention: "We, delegates, met for the purpose of carrying into effect the benevolent intentions of our constituents, by organizing a plan for eliciting, combining and directing the energies of the whole denomination, in one sacred effort," etc. Did it originate with Luther Rice, or did it come over the waters?

THE BAPTISMAL SCENE.

Dr. Richard Furman was pastor of the First Baptist church of Greenville from 1854 to 1862. On February 21, 1858, he dedicated the present beautiful church building by a forcible discourse from Psalms 50:2. This discourse was published in pamphlet form and contains a passage about the baptismal scene which is in language so striking that it may well be republished. It is given below.

McDONALD FURMAN.

Privateer, Sumter Co., S. C.

Look at the ordinance of baptism. How significant in its nature, how beautiful in its solemnity! The history of this ordinance—the joy with which it has ever been submitted to by the meek believer, the impression it leaves upon the minds of those who respectfully witness it, stamp it indelibly as the ordinance of God. I can conceive of no picture upon earth that surpasses in beauty the baptismal scene. That is a scene beautiful to angels, around which, in viewless forms, they gather and linger. And as we have gazed upon that scene, O, how often have our hearts thrilled with joy, and our minds wandered back, eighteen hundred years, to that memorable scene on the banks of the Jordan, when our meek Redeemer, after his baptism, came up out of the water, and the heavens were opened, and the Spirit of God descended like a dove and lit upon his head, and the Father spake in a voice audible to man, saying: "This is my beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased."

THE SERMON THAT IS AFTER A SOUL.

The sermon that is after a soul is, like the Master, "filled with compassion." It will have in it what was in Christ's eyes when he looked on Peter, with the curses and denials scarce off that poor disciple's lips. It will have in it what was in Christ's voice when he stood weeping over Jerusalem, and said, "How oft would I have gathered thy children together, as a hen gathereth her brood under her wing, and ye would not." The severest rebuke will get its chief severity from the deep undertone of divine compassion. And whether it be warning or entreaty, command or invitation, the terrors of the law or the forgiveness of the gospel, the pathos of a suffering and beseeching and pursuing love will bathe it all and make it clear that if the sermon does not bring the prodigal home it will be because he preferred to trample on his father's heart and murder mercy.

Brethren of the ministry, what are sermons to "the times," compared with sermons to the eternities? Sermons of instruction are indeed priceless. But the gospel is not simply food for saints. It is a cry of alarm. It is a word of rescue. It is a call to repentance. If sinners are not brought to Christ, how can they be built up in Christ? Let it never be forgotten that souls are before us every Sabbath—sinful, unsaved, perishing, lost souls. Men of God, "throw out the lifeline."—Herrick Johnson.

When Sir Christopher Wren was engaged in demolishing the ruins of old St. Pauls, in order to make room for his new Cathedral, he used a battering ram with which thirty men continued to beat upon a part of the wall for a whole day. The workmen not discerning any immediate effect thought this a waste of time, but Wren, who knew that the internal motion thus communicated must be operating, encouraged them to persevere. On the second day the wall began to tremble at the top, and fell in a few hours.
