

Arthur Wiley was born Jan 06, 1896 in Hilton Head, Beaufort County, South Carolina to Henry Wiley and Minda Rivers, both also born on Hilton Head.

During the 1900 census of District 0008, Hilton Head, Beaufort County, South Carolina, taken Jun 01, 1900, Arthur was living with his parents and siblings:

Henry Wiley, was the head of the household and had been married to Minda for 8 years. He was born in South Carolina about Apr 1870, age 30. His father was born in Georgia and his mother in Virginia. He could read, write and speak English. He owned his farm and it was mortgage free.

Minda was born about Jan 1874, age 26, and was the mother of four children, all living. Her father and mother were born in South Carolina. She could also read, write and speak English.

William was born about Apr 1893, age 7, and was in school.

Arthur was born about Jan 1896, age 4; Irvin was born about Feb 1898, age 2; Samuel was born about May 1900.

During the 1910 census of Hilton Head Island, enumeration district 66, taken Apr 20, 1910, Arthur Wiley, age 14, was a servant in the household of Thomas Wright, a black, age 60, a farmer, who was born in South Carolina.

His mother, Minnie was the head of the household next door. She was married, age 37, and was still the mother of four children, all living.

His siblings, William, age 17; Lester, age 12; and Samuel, age 10, were living in their mother's house and working on the farm.

On Jun 05, 1917 Arthur filed his World War I draft registration card when he was living in Hilton Head and farming for himself. He stated that he was married, and at that time described as being tall with a medium build, black eyes and black hair.

On Feb 23, 1918, Arthur Wiley was selected by the Beaufort County, South Carolina local draft board to be trained at Camp Jackson, South Carolina. He was assigned Order Number 163, serial number 970, call number 16, and at that time was a farmer. He was classified as 1A

During the 1920 census, Arthur could not be found

During the 1930 census of Enumeration District 7-4, Hilton Head, Beaufort County, South Carolina, taken May 05, 1930, Arthur was a farmer living with his wife Julia and five children. He was 33 years old, married at age 20, owned his house, and had a radio. He was not listed as a veteran of a war.

His wife Julia was 29, and married at age 16. She and her parents were born in South Carolina. She could read, write and speak English.

Irvine, age 7 was in school; Margaret, age 6 was in school; Eugene, age 5; Roman, age 4 years, 1 month; Reggy, age 1 year, 3 months

Arthur Wiley was born Jan 06, 1896 in Hilton Head, Beaufort County, South Carolina to Henry Wiley and Minda Rivers, both also born on Hilton Head. During the 1900 census of District 0008, Hilton Head, Beaufort County, South Carolina, taken Jun 01, 1900, Arthur was living with his parents and siblings: Henry Wiley, was the head of the household and had been married to Minda for 8 years. He was born in South Carolina about Apr 1870, age 30. His father was born in Georgia and his mother in Virginia. He could read, write and speak English. He owned his farm and it was mortgage free. Minda was born about Jan 1874, age 26, and was the mother of four children, all living. Her father and mother were born in South Carolina. She could also read, write and speak English. William was born about Apr 1893, age 7, and was in school. Arthur was born about Jan 1896, age 4; Irvin was born about Feb 1898, age 2; Samuel was born about May 1900.

During the 1910 census of Hilton Head Island, enumeration district 66, taken Apr 20, 1910, Arthur Wiley, age 14, was a servant in the household of Thomas Wright, a black, age 60, a farmer, who was born in South Carolina. His mother, Minnie was the head of the household next door. She was married, age 37, and was still the mother of four children, all living. His siblings, William, age 17; Lester, age 12; and Samuel, age 10, were living in their mother's house and working on the farm.

On Jun 05, 1917 Arthur filed his World War I draft registration card when he was living in Hilton Head and farming for himself. He stated that he was married, and at that time described as being tall with a medium build, black eyes and black hair.

On Feb 23, 1918, Arthur Wiley was selected by the Beaufort County, South Carolina local draft board to be trained at Camp Jackson, South Carolina. He was assigned Order Number 163, serial number 970, call number 16, and at that time was a farmer. He was classified as 1A

...because if they wanted their child to continue in school, they had to scrape together money and put the child in a big bateau filled with suitcases for the choppy row across the water to the Mather School in Beaufort, the Penn School on St. Helena Island, the "Shanklin School" in Burton, or a school in Savannah.

As the roll was called at the banquet, one thing was clear. The teachers are still loved.

A HEAD START

Phoebe Driessen was singled out for a special honor. She was cited as a pioneering pre-school teacher in a program that predated by two years the national Head Start program.

"Head Start, as I see it, started right here on Hilton Head," said Thomas C. Barnwell Jr., who as a child left one of the small island schools to attend Penn School. "I am glad the community is saying 'thank you' to Mrs. Driessen for her pioneering effort that had something to do with a broader spectrum of life."

Driessen taught first-graders to read for more than 30 years on her native Hilton Head before retiring in 1984. She was born in the Mitchelville area into the Wiley family, which already included Cyrus G. Wiley, the second president of Savannah State University.

She graduated from Mather after attending the Cherry Hill School, built by islanders in 1937 at the urging of her father, Arthur "Conrad" Wiley. It is the island's only surviving neighborhood Gullah school. It is on the National Register of Historic Places, and now has a historical marker out front on Dillon Road.

After the island schools were consolidated into a red brick building in 1954, principal Isaac W. Wilborn told superintendent H.E. McCracken that he needed to get children into the school before the first grade.

McCracken and the school board agreed to let him try something. Naturally, Phoebe Driessen was the teacher. It was seen as a statewide model in the summer of 1963. People from Columbia came to study it, Wilborn said. He was asked to write a report on it, which he called "Bridging the Gap Between the Home and the School." In 1965, it was replaced by Head Start.

HONORING THE TEACHERS

Teachers dating to the days before Hilton Head Island had a bridge who were honored Jan. 18 by the Gullah Museum of Hilton Head Island:

Melvin Albertgottie; Rosalie Badger; Hannah Barnwell; Rosalie Barnwell; Julia Brinson; Sarah Brown; Julia Campbell; Reginald Campbell; Sarah Campbell; Solomon Campbell; Phoebe Driessen; Earlene Frazier; Mary Houston; The Rev. Charles Houston Sr.; Ruth Jones; Mrs. Lucas; Jannie White Mitchell; Johnnie Mitchell; Readell Myers; Dorothy Palmore

Also, Alexandria Patterson; Lucinda Patterson; Anna Riley; Rosa Simmons; Diogenese Singleton; Isaac Wilborn; Romona Wilborn; Cyrus G. Wiley; Annette Wright; Christine Wright; Olivia Wright; Dorothy Johnson Williams

Old-time teachers on an old-time Hilton Head Island finally got called to the head of the class last week.

The names of 31 educators who worked from the early 1900s until the bridge was built in 1956 were recited at the Gullah Museum of Hilton Head Island's annual banquet.

Johnnie Patterson Mitchell called it the era "when the curtain shut."

It was after slavery and forced illiteracy were destroyed, after the Union soldiers left, after the missionary teachers went back up North. It was when the Gullah left behind were either going to sink or swim on their own wit and wisdom.

Mitchell, who made the presentations, said: "We latched onto the belief that if we had faith in God, gave our children a good education, and worked hard we would survive."

Cash-starved islanders found a way to supplement teacher pay. house teachers, build schools and add time to the school year. About half a dozen one- or two-room schools dotted the island, at first covering five grades and later seven.

Teachers were sometimes paid with sweet potatoes.

Some may have had only a little bit of high school education themselves. Others could act as lawyers and editors. Teachers, then as now, also served as quasi social services agents, filling a child's need for socks as well as long division.

And when a child came to the end of the island course, parents had to double down on their sacrifice if they wanted their child to continue in school. They had to scrape together money and put the child in a big bateau filled with suitcases for the choppy row across the water to the Mather School in Beaufort, the Penn School on St. Helena Island, the "Shanklin School" in Burton, or a school in Savannah.

As the roll was called at the banquet, one thing was clear. The teachers are still loved.
